Salvador aid to get OK: Biden

Congress will soon approve $30 million to $40 million in emergency military aid for El Salvador, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said Sunday on NBC's Meet the Press.

But the amount of future aid and the conditions placed on assistance will depend largely on the results of next Sunday's elections there, he said.

Biden, a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, also said that overseeing the Central Intelligence Agency is not a "mission impossible" despite the CIA's failure to notify the committee of its assistance in Nicaraguan harbor mining.

The committee should take an adversarial position toward the CIA, much like the press does with politicians, Biden said.

"We should not be co-opted by it," Biden said.
